Client Case Study: How The Diploma Helped Win Work for an Architectural Practice

James Traynor Managing Director, ECD Architects

ECD employ 10 Retrofit Coordinators accredited by The Retrofit Academy and provide bespoke consultancy support to a number of clients. This includes pre-retrofit assessments for clients and contractor support to ensure site quality checks are maintained. ECD are currently delivering the 'Smarthomes' project for 6 boroughs across North London, providing independent advice to homeowners.

As the practice head, what was your motivation to enrol your staff in the Retrofit Coordinator Diploma?

Our motivation to enrol staff on the Retrofit Coordinator course was to build upon our existing retrofit skills as this is a key sector for our business.

Have there been any tangible benefits from the training for you, your employer or your customers to date that you can directly attribute to the course?

Our ongoing work on for Haringey Council is directly linked to the Retrofit Coordinator Diploma.

Would you recommend that other architects adopt the training?

Yes, we have trained 10 staff as Retrofit Coordinators and would recommend this course to others.

What benefits could other architects expect to get from it?

I would expect architects to get a detailed understanding of retrofit good practice.

“Our ongoing work on for Haringey Council is directly linked to the Retrofit Coordinator Diploma.”
